

Say Mussolini Plans To Eliminate Strongly Pro-Ally

London.—Reports from Rome have received in diplomatic circles, according to the Havan News Agency, saying Premier Mussolini is planning a new cabinet reorganization to eliminate strongly pro-Ally ministers.

The newly made Foreign Minister, Alcide De Gasperi, is mentioned in this connection. It is said that Mussolini's administration will be pro-German before the war, since he turned toward the Allies.

The general opinion among the informed Italian public is that the reorganization of the Italian cabinet to Italy is a new attempt to force her into the Allied camp. It was noted they would not necessarily become a belligerent but act as a neutral country whose part was to make peace and save Allied war materials.

Giuseppe Bastianelli, Italy's ambassador to Great Britain, who has been in Rome to discuss Anglo-Italian questions with Premier Chamberlain and foreign office officials, has returned to his post in London.

It is believed that the new cabinet on the question of Italy's remaining neutral to the British government, Italy's policy to replace against Germany has been interrupted by the new blockade.

Italy imports 3,000,000 tons of wheat annually and has been receiving an additional 7,000,000 tons from Germany.

Ruthless War

Alr Marshall Bishop Says We Must Face The Facts

Toronto.—Canadians were warned by Alr Marshall W. Bishop that they must face the facts and not let themselves believe that war is still far off and not against the German people, but only against the German government. Mr. Bishop declared that Germany is the only power in the world that is not fighting for the sake of the world.

"We must not bury our heads in the sand," he declared in an address to the Institute of Economics and Statistics of the University of Toronto, "we must face the facts. We are fighting a war which is not for the sake of the world, but for the sake of the German people. We are fighting a war which is not for the sake of the world, but for the sake of the German people. We are fighting a war which is not for the sake of the world, but for the sake of the German people."

Let us not hide behind any shallow subterfuge. Let us face the facts and let us face our role accordingly. We are fighting the same ruthless, cruel, lying, unscrupulous, treacherous, and cowardly war as many of you fought before to defend of all that we hold dear. Let us not hide behind any shallow subterfuge. Let us face the facts and let us face our role accordingly. We are fighting the same ruthless, cruel, lying, unscrupulous, treacherous, and cowardly war as many of you fought before to defend of all that we hold dear.

It was the first public address by the general since his appointment as director of recruiting for the R.C.A.F. in connection with the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan which, he said, when it reaches its peak, will be turning out some 7,000 pilots and 12,000 air crew members. He said that the plan will be a home establishment entirely apart from the pupils themselves, which must rapidly exceed 33,000.

A carload of visitors consigned to Kasper Kempf was received in Delia last week-end.

Dr. A. M. Day, Liberal candidate for the federal riding of Assiniboia, was on organization meeting in Delia on Wednesday last week.

We regret to record the death of W. Harrison, an old settler of this district, which occurred last Tuesday morning of this week. Deceased had been suffering from pneumonia.

The week long cold spell was broken on Thursday last by a drizzle which, although starting slowly, by Monday had thawed snow to the extent of leaving roads in a very muddy state with pools of water visible everywhere. Tuesday saw another change, the ground being blanketed with about three inches of wet snow. By Wednesday, snow had cleared with bright sunshine.

Three risks from Delia visited House to compete for the Delia Hospital held in that town last week-end. These were as follows: Mrs. Fred Nelson, Mrs. Delia Nelson, Mrs. J. J. Olson, and Mrs. K. H. Hare (all). This risk was 3rd prize in the second event. Mrs. J. J. Olson, Mrs. K. H. Hare, and Mrs. K. H. Hare (all). This risk was 3rd prize in the second event. Mrs. J. J. Olson, Mrs. K. H. A TUBERCULOSIS CONTROL OUTLINE

If one province of Canada can reduce its tuberculosis death rate so that it is 42 per cent, then that is the goal for the country as a whole. It is safe to take the lowest rate as an objective in tuberculosis control. Even assuming that Saskatchewan's rate must now be more favorable to the keeping down of the tuberculosis mortality, the difference in the death rate is not large. Those who are working to conquer this disease may be encouraged.

The annual average number for 1939 credit Saskatchewan was 28.8 deaths from tuberculosis per 100,000 people. Canada's average was 54.6. This, of course, is a significant improvement in the last decade, ten years ago there being over 80 deaths per 100,000 people.

Why We Must Expand

(By W. J. CANNON, of the Food Ministry)

It is almost a commonplace that so many nations, whatever the amount, is divided three ways—much for the nation's livelihood, some for the support of government and the remainder the acquisition of economic wealth. All these are essential, but more than essential, it is absolutely indispensable, to extend and keep on expanding the measure of national livelihood. These we had yesterday are not enough "to go round." Population has increased, people have become adults, more families have been added and thus require new jobs and a greater source of supplies. The nation is always progressing its economic life and must keep on expanding its economic life. How little we hear nowadays about getting back to the 1929 standard, we realize that we have outgrown it. It is no longer true.

The nation is like a family, with this difference: members of a family grow up and normally die, but the members of our national family must grow up unless they degenerate and normally die. It is the duty of the national family to expand its means of self-support to take care of its members and to expand its means of self-support to take care of its members.

First of all, 60 per cent of the national income goes for the nation's living expenses. This leaves 40 per cent to be divided among support of government and acquisition of our economic wealth. The proportion these two items bear to each other has varied in the course of time, but in the early nineteenth century it was very different. It was 10 per cent for the support of government and 30 per cent for the acquisition of our economic wealth. It was 10 per cent for the support of government and 30 per cent for the acquisition of our economic wealth.

Now, however, it has worked out all right. Public institutions are now less able to conduct its affairs on about five per cent of the national income, leaving 35 per cent for the acquisition of our economic wealth. It is "go on" that 35 per cent of the national income is used for the acquisition of our economic wealth.

It is not merely that more money is so directed. Money has no value except in terms of goods and services. Money may be plentiful, and the wealth may be great, but it is no use unless it is used to produce goods and services. Money may be plentiful, and the wealth may be great, but it is no use unless it is used to produce goods and services.
